president's address

by John L. Ronayne

We, the members of the Class of 1953, extend our sincere welcome to all the many friends and relatives here tonight; also to the teachers and counselors who have guided us for the past four years. At the commencement of our new life, we wish to express appreciation to all who have shown an interest in our well-being in school and out of school.

To the teachers who have helped us through these last years to realize the seriousness of the task before us, we are very grateful. No matter what field of activity we may follow, whether it be in the business world or in an institution of higher learning, Classical High School, through its faculty, who have been our most sincere friends, has imparted into our very beings the qualities which will enable us to achieve success as we persevere along life's way.

To you, our parents, we are deeply appreciative of your many sacrifices and apologize for our many shortcomings. At this time we can do no more than to promise you that our future lives will be complete fulfillment of your faith in us.

Did any of you seniors have trouble finding your way to the auditorium today. No? What a stupid question to ask? It has happened, you know, or perhaps you have forgotten when we, as freshmen, entered this assembly for the first time in September, 1949.

Once inside the building, we all shared a feeling of anxiety and wondered what those older students were talking about when they would say, "Freshmen go to the auditorium." Finally, after several futile attempts at asking directions, you made your way to this auditorium, from here to your home room, and at last through your first day at Classical High School.

Not until the first Argus came out and we read, "Welcome to Classical, you of 1953," did we really feel at home.

"Mule Train" was the song of the year and as we trudged to the gym, we often wished that it was by mule train.

That year our Christmas assembly was a solemn musical program combining the Jewish Feast of Lights and the Catholic and Protestant Services.

Our first social affair was to attend the musical, "Rio Rico". We can hardly forget the graceful pirouettes of the husky ballerinas but we most enjoyed our own Sam Shulman, Mikki Chomicz, Elsie Tufenkjian and Billy Papazian.

When the all-E lists were published, Jane Arslen, Elaine Curran, Lorna Rabinow and Lewis Bogage could be found as shining examples for the rest of the class. At last our freshman status was made more impressive, for we found we had a celebrity in our midst. Jimmy Philip, an outstanding Worcester swimmer, had his own writeup in the paper.

Finally the last week of school was upon us, our happiest week of the year, for we were on the verge of climbing one notch higher in the four-runged ladder of high school.

Shortly before we entered our sophomore year, the United States was once again called upon to fight in defense of free nations.

It was the year for argyles and Mario Lanza.

Many of us began to take an interest in track and gazed in pride at Jack Ronayne's picture in the paper for placing second in the Inter-High Track Meet. Barry Rotman and Dick Hedlund also gave stellar performances.

In November we attended our first Varsity-Faculty game. The "unusual garb" of the players and the novel cheering of our cheerleaders will ever be memories of a wonderful evening. Also to be remembered were Hank Cusick and Paul Andrews who helped Classical tie for second place honors in the Inter-High tournament. With the end of our sophomore year came the end of our daily treks to the gym. Long to be remembered are Mikki Chomicz's black eye, Judy Weiner's and Paula Lewis's early trips back to school, and the many times the girls were caught eating breakfast in the Y. cafeteria.

The year ended with the Green Room Club's fine presentation of "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" and we all looked forward to our junior year when we would finally be upper classmen, and be able to attend the assemblies in the first section. Our junior year, full of activities, raced by. Clubs, sports and dances, as well as studies, were all part of our high school life as we contributed more and more to school activities.

The result of our first class elections were John Ronayne, President; Mikki Chomicz, Vice President; Peggy Frederickson, Secretary; Danny Sullivan, Treasurer. This was the year for Math 5, the poodle haircut and Johnny Ray.

Although our football team was not impressive, our cheer leaders were. Jane Gilligan, Peggy Fredrickson, Joyce Giradin and Margie Havey could be heard in rousing cheers.

Many hours were spent poring over our little "blue book" from our safety course. After much grumbling, we were glad to hear that we would be exempt from answering any questions at our driving test.

January 26, 1952, was the date of our first class dance, the Junior Promenade, held at the Elk's Home. Sights never to be forgotten were Bill Adamski selling soft drinks, Joel Whitman guarding his lovely decorations, the laughing couples and the gay reunion at Mr. A's afterwards.

On February 28, 1952, the Senior Variety Show was the talk of the school. Danny Sullivan, Elaine Joseph and Jane Gilligan helped to represent our class. Our annual Varsity faculty game and the senior play, "Junior Miss", followed in quick succession. Hazel Sher as the understanding "mother" and Buz Bogage with his racoon coat will not be forgotten.

With the spring came the junior's desire to get his license. A remark often heard among students was, "Well, here I go for the third time. I hope I make it." This was the year for our tennis teams. For the winning of the inter-high tournament, Joel Whitman, Richie Katzeff, Dave Meltzer and Peter White deserve our congratulations.

September, 1952, brought along Don Howard, Muzzey and his American History and the flu.

Not to be outdone by the national election, we too elected some good officers who included John Ronayne, Elsie Tufenkjian, Judith Carey and Thomas Dolan. Never to be forgotten are the beaming faces of Ann Reidy, Mary-Ellen Boyle and Joyce Merriam the day they received their licenses. It probably meant a few more gray hairs for Mr. Coakley.

The Varsity clubs' dance, Varsity-Faculty game and college boards filled the months of December and January.

Deserving our plaudits were Janis Keating, Paul Zaido, Ronny Berrol, Ginny Stewart, Lincoln Anderson and Bill Adamski whose poems were accepted by the National High School Poetry Association.

Our Variety show this year proved to be the best ever, bringing forth such stars as Doris Sansoucy, Lois Missle and Gregory Harrison.

February and March brough the familiar phrases, "Do you think it's flattering?" and "Who is it?" which echoed through the halls.

Then after all our measurings for caps and gown and preparations for the Senior Prom, June was upon us.

And now that it is all over, all we have are the memories—funny, sad, ridiculous, inspiring, the memory of patient, sorely-tried teachers; of four years of study and fellowships.

To our principal and teachers we offer our sincerest thanks. To you, "Class of 1953", the road to success lies open and waiting. May you travel it in happiness and contentment!

class will

by Daniel J. Sullivan

We, the Class of 1953, being practically sound in mind and body, as the last act of our high school life do hereby bequeath our most cherished earthly possessions as follows:

To Mister McKinley, we leave the basket in which we made "the usual deposit."

To Mister Rice, the members of the Tangerine Club leave their skins.

To Mister Daly, we leave our best wishes, just beCAUSE we like him.

To Miss Phillips, Buz Bogage leaves . . . well, he leaves. That ought to be enough.

To two lucky Juniors, the editors of our school paper leave a slightly-splintered "Argus" Board.

To a Junior boy, Mike Morano leaves his ability to create unusual —to say the least—poems.

To Eddie Vesh, Jim Dunn leaves his most priceless athletic asset: speed.

To some deserving undergraduate group, the Boys at the Foot of the Stairs leave their cherished recess meeting-place.

To John Berg, Mikki Chomicz leaves the responsibility of producing a Variety Show comparable to this year's performance.

To the trunk in the attic, Elaine Curran leaves a faded Valentine signed: "Barry".

To the Green Room Club, Gregory Harrison leaves his Santa Claus costume, complete with scraggly beard.

To the Camera Club, Bill Saxton leaves his famous "Argus" Press Card. (You don't think he paid money to get into all those games, do you?)

To whomever may want it, Sam Shulman leaves an autographed picture of Igor and Havelston.

To Harry James, we leave the hope of someday becoming another Dick Yucatonis . . . or vice versa.

To Benson's Animal Farm, Richard Robbins leaves Whitey, the Wonder Wabbit.

To Aaron Heiten's Doris Sansoucy leaves The Truck.

To any aspiring artist in school, Elsie Tufenkjian leaves her talent for designing clever and original posters.

To Dick St. John, Hank Cusick leaves his place on the All City Team.

To the fish in Mister Weed's room, Jim Phillip leaves his swimming prowess.

And finally,

To Mister Fenner, Mister Couming, and all the faculty, we leave our most sincere thanks for a job well done.

Signed, for the Class of 1953,

DANIEL SULLIVAN, Testator

by Lewis E. Bogage

"The navigation of the fifteenth century," said a writer on our civilization, "was primitive and faulty; yet it discovered America. Now America is ready for rediscovery—by Americans." Such a rediscovery, if undertaken, could lead us to a better understanding and appreciation of what we have done, and do, every day of our lives with our heritage of democratic ideals. It might make us stop to reconsider these ideals and the distance we have traveled toward them. A reconsideration should renew our courage—as individuals capable of growth—to press harder toward their attainment.

There are more than one hundred and forty million Americans, descendants of almost every racial and national group in the world. The establishment of our nation started a migration to our shores that reached more than a million persons annually in some years of the early 1900's.

For more than three hundred years people have been coming to America to escape tyranny, hopeless poverty, and persecution for thought or religious faith—to share in the promise and the building of a new way of life. For the principles of democracy apply to all of life. Democracy is a way of thinking and acting. It influences the way we feel and behave toward our fellow men in all things.

Democracy means sharing—privileges and responsibilities. It means taking turns; giving the other fellow a chance, too. Democracy means equality. Our Declaration of Independence reads . . . "all men are created equal" — another way of saying that rich and poor, black and white, Gentile and Jew, scholar and manual laborer are all human beings with the right to equal opportunities for self-development. Democracy allows no favors because of economic status, race, religion, or the kind of work one does.

Democracy also means recognizing differences among individuals. People are not equal or alike in physical health, in ambitions, in tastes, and abilities. They cannot do the same things in the same way, nor are their choices in companions, in beliefs, in jobs, and in amusements alike. The greatest freedom of choice possible and the least uniformity necessary to the common good is democracy's way. Democracy presupposes faith in the intelligence of the individual and in his capacity to make choices worthy of this trust. It calls for self-discipline through which it receives its real force.

To a far greater degree than we often realize, our democratic beliefs are woven into our everyday life, private as well as public. They play a part in all major activities everywhere in this varied land, giving unity of purpose and hope to its varied peoples. Our everyday activities are at one and the same time what democracy has made them and a proving ground for the training and practice of democracy.

In the very nature of democracy, its work is truly unfinished. Even while we have not been perfect in our practice of democracy, our efforts have given us a higher standard of living, more personal freedoms, and greater human dignity than are enjoyed by people who have adopted other ways of life. We have in our power the possibility for further improvement and happiness as long as we hold fast to our democratic ideals.

it's the "Know How"

Years of experience in serving thousands and thousands of Undergrads have given Kennedy's the "Know How," so important to all high and Prep school men. That's why — season after season — Undergrads come back to Kennedy's for their every clothing need.
